

BRITISH TRANSPORT POLICE

Are you capable of making a life-altering decision?

The British Transport Police presents an incredible opportunity to engage in critical decision-making within London's Hydra suite.

Hydra is an advanced piece of technology designed to train police officers in specific skills and enhance their understanding of the law across various policing scenarios.

It operates by presenting students with a mix of video clips, audio segments, and written tasks.

The problems can adapt based on your responses, illustrating the consequences of your choices.

This is a remarkable chance to experience the weight of making critical, life-altering decisions while gaining insights into policing, in collaboration with BPT at:
